"Knock, Knock"Who's there?
The Outdoors!!!

Help your students open the door to better reading by attending "Children's Books — Doorway to the Outdoors", conducted by the Natural Resources Education Center . This eight-hour workshop will provide participants with hands-on experiences and research based information on using the outdoors to create better readers. You will be introduced to several books that can be used as the "doorway", interact in panel discussions with experts in this field, create your own nature journal, and develop outdoor extensions from selected children's books.

Quotes from previous workshop participants:

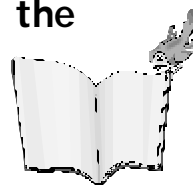

"The book reports were great. I wish I had a copy as we are doing non-fiction books reports now! This was fantastic! I thoroughly enjoyed the day!" Beverly Knox, 4th grade classroom teacher, Ryan Elementary, MSD of Steuben County School

"Great variety of activities and knowledgeable resource people." Blair Brown, 4th grade classroom teacher, Bluffton-Harrison Elementary , Bluffton-Harrison MSD

I loved all of it! The exposure to all the books via the book reports, speakers, etc. was great! Thanks for all the great stuff. Mary Cutler, ippecanoe Parks & Recreation

"I have taught for 27 years and sat through my share of workshops. This was a superior day. I feel fortunate I could attend." Paul Beckwith, Science Teacher, Angola Middle School, Steuben County MSD
